High Money Cost To Be Hot Topic In Ohio Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The high cost of money, a frustrating subject to legislators in their abbreviated session last month, may be the hottest topic to come up in the close-out session of the 108th General Assembly opening here tonight.

The fact this is an election year for all 99 House members and 17 of the 33 senators puts a damper on most legislative subjects of a controversial nature.

Democrats are expected to offer more so-called policy bills that have little chance of passing but make good speech subjects in the coming political campaigns.

In the three-day session last month Democrats offered 24 such bills. Republicans dominated both the House, 64-35, and the Senate 21-12.

Ohio's legal limit of 8 per cent interest on loans has run into a snag under new federal rules that allow 8 1/2 per cent interest on loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration and the Federal Housing Administration.

One of the first pieces of business in the short session last Jan. 13 was a bill to up the legal interest ceiling to match the limit on federally insured loans.

The bill failed to get the 66 votes needed for passage as an emergency measure. It is pending in the committee.

Senate Studies School Plans

Southerners Seek Freedom Of Choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate turned today to consideration of southern proposals for student-parent freedom of choice in the selection of schools, including one plan Sen. John Stennis says is written along the lines of a New York state law.

Stennis, a Mississippi Democrat, says if such a plan can stand in New York, then Congress can permit no less for the rest of the nation.

Although Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he hopes the Senate can complete work on the $35 billion education bill by Tuesday, Stennis said he anticipated considerable discussion on the freedom of choice amendment and other proposals offered by Dixie senators.

Thus it is uncertain whether the bill extending major school aid programs for four years can be passed before the traditional Lincoln Day recess gets under way at the close of business Tuesday. The lawmakers' holiday period ends next Monday.

Meanwhile, governors of Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Louisiana announced after a meeting Sunday in Mobile, Ala., they plan to meet soon with their congressional delegations.

The governors seek unified action to meet what they term "chaotic conditions" facing their schools because the courts have rebuffed efforts to block immediate desegregation through busing.

Continue Search For Plane Wreckage

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard was to continue operations today to recover the wreckage of a TAG Airlines plane that crashed into ice-covered Lake Erie Jan. 28 with nine persons aboard.

Divers identified the wreckage Sunday in more than 60 feet of water. The plane crashed about 15 miles off Avon Point, west of Cleveland.

Wet Snow Falls Across Midwest; Rain Hits South

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mild temperatures reigned over the western part of the nation and along the Atlantic seaboard early today but wet snow covered the Great Lakes region and rain fell over the South, the Ohio River valley and the eastern Appalachians.

The Atlantic Coast was due for a share of the wetness as the low pressure disturbance in Ohio which caused it drifted east.

One to two inches of wet snow fell in the last six hours across northern Illinois and Indiana and extreme southern Michigan. Highways were snow-packed and became slick in many areas, and travelers warnings were issued.

West of the Mississippi, fine dry weather prevailed as the result of a large high pressure area over the northern plains. Early morning temperatures ranged from 2 degrees at Bismarck N.D., to 65 at Tucson, Ariz.

Arabs, Israelis Trade Attacks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli and Egyptian jets traded strikes across the northern Suez Canal today as the little summit meeting of Israel's chief Arab foes drew to a close in Cairo.

Israeli planes made a 75-minute raid against Egyptian military targets in the northern sector of the canal, the military command announced in Tel Aviv, and all planes returned safely.

Egyptian military spokesmen in Cairo reported that Egyptian fighter-bombers attacked "enemy bunkers and an encampment in the Deversoir area, scoring direct hits." The planes hit a group of moving Israeli vehicles, the spokesmen said, and also attacked Israeli tanks on a main road in Sinai. All planes were reported to have returned safely.

Israeli jets struck on two sides of Cairo Sunday during the second day of the Arab leaders' conference called by President Gamal Nasser. The Israelis claimed they shot down two Egyptian MIG21s. Egypt claimed one Israeli Phantom, and each denied the other's camp.

The Israeli planes attacked an army camp at Inshash, 12 miles northeast of the Egyptian capital, and hit another camp near Helwan, 15 miles south of Cairo.

Just before the Sunday morning meeting at Arab leaders at Nasser's Zahraa palace in suburban Heliopolis, air raid sirens wailed, windows were rattled by an unexplained blast, and residents heard the thud of anti-aircraft guns firing at the Israeli raiders.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad said Sunday night that the leaders of Egypt, Jordan, Syria, Iraq and Sudan—the nations manning the front lines against Israel—had agreed on recommendations submitted to them, their foreign and defense ministers. The leaders were to hold a final discussion today and then issue a communiqué.

Egyptian fighters engaged the Israeli planes as they attacked the two army camps. Israeli spokesmen said the two MIGs were hit by cannon fire at "medium altitude," and that one exploded in the air and the other crashed in flames. They said one of the Egyptian pilots bailed out.

Cairo spokesmen said the Israeli Phantom was one of four intercepted by Egyptian MIGs near the raided area. It was the third Phantom the Egyptians claim to have destroyed.

It was Israel's ninth reported strike over the Nile Valley since Jan. 7 and the first in 11 days. Israeli pilots reported a massive explosion at the target near Helwan. Cairo said 12 civilians were injured.

It was also the first time Egyptian fighters challenged Israeli planes deep inside Egypt. Both sides said Egyptian jets attacked Israeli positions in the central sector of the Suez Canal.

Expect Upturn At Midyear After Slide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul W. McCracken, chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, says the administration probably will act to ease the tight monetary policies established to cool down the economy.

"Clearly, a continuation through 1970 of the rather restrictive policies that we had in 1969 would not be consistent with the outlook that we indicated" in the President's economic report, McCracken said Sunday.

McCracken joined other government economists over the weekend in declaring the administration has succeeded in slowing down the inflation spiral and, with the proper safeguards, without serious threat of a recession.

Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy, along with McCracken and Budget Director Robert P. Mayo and Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns, indicated the economy will continue to coast down for the next few months.

"Then," Kennedy said, "we will level out sometime this year to a more sustainable rate and then there will be an increase in activity on a more sustainable basis."

Kennedy, McCracken and Mayo appeared on NBC's Sunday interview program "Meet the Press."

McCracken didn't say it, but to carry out monetary policy changes will require the cooperation of the independent Federal Reserve Board and Burns.

The Fed, as the board is called, operates on its own to control credit in the nation and therefore the flow of money in the economy, affected only by the President through suggestions and public appeals.

Burns, who served as a top Nixon adviser before being appointed as Fed chairman, indicated to Congress Saturday he may not agree entirely with McCracken's assessment of the need for less restrictive monetary controls.

Tight rein on government spending and adherence to the current program of monetary restraint are among the most important factors in fighting inflation, he said.

Increased productivity, he said, is the way to a restored economy not a general increase in the money supply. That "could lead to a disastrous inflation," Burns told the House Banking and Currency Committee.

Burns also said the slowdown in business and employment is not a recession, but a "readjustment" which will continue in the next few months with a decline in housing and jobs.

"But I think it is a healthy thing and I think it will lay the foundation for stable growth in the future," he said.

Claim Red Employee Spy

SEATTLE Wash. (AP) — A Soviet employee of the United Nations refuses to comment on charges of espionage against him. The State Department, the FBI in Washington and the Soviet mission to the United Nations also are keeping quiet on the case.

Aleksandr Vassilevich Tikhomirov, 37, remained in city jail on an FBI complaint which said he had conspired with Russian agents and "other persons unknown" since Jan. 4, 1969, to obtain information about U.S. defenses.

An unidentified official of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D.C., visited Tikhomirov in his cell for about 30 minutes Sunday, but made no attempt to post bail.

Bail of $100,000 was set Saturday by U.S. Commissioner Walter J. Reseburg Jr., who scheduled a hearing Wednesday.

As an employee of the U.N. Secretariat, Tikhomirov had unlimited freedom to travel in the United States.

Allied Forces Slay 117 Reds In Action In Mekong Delta

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese spokesmen said today that U.S. and government forces have killed at least 117 North Vietnamese and captured six in a four-day battle still going on in the western Mekong Delta's Plain of Reeds.

The battle in the savanna land—dry at this time of year—was the only sustained major fighting reported during the Viet Cong's four-day Tet cease-fire which ended at 7 a.m. today—6 p.m. EST Sunday.

The fighting began when an American helicopter was fired on Friday. Government mercenaries led by U.S. Special Forces made a helicopter assault into the area, about eight miles southwest of Moc Hoa and 60 miles west of Saigon, and touched off a succession of running fights.

Field reports said about 10 government troops had been killed and a dozen wounded. The mercenaries and their Green Beret officers are being supported by American helicopter gunships and fighter-bombers.

The enemy troops are reported to be from the North Vietnamese 88th Regiment, one of four North Vietnamese regiments in the delta. It has operated near Chau Doc, 100 miles west of Saigon along the Cambodian border, Kien Tuong Province, where the current battle is being fought, is the farthest east that the unit has been sighted.

The U.S. Command reported that an American river patrol boat with five U.S. Navy men aboard strayed across the Cambodian border Thursday night and is being detained by the Cambodian government. A spokesman said Washington has asked the Cambodians to release the boat and its crew.

The incident occurred 100 miles west of Saigon, where the Mekong River crosses the border. The command said the crew "apparently became disoriented in the dark when returning to their station" 15 miles downstream from the border.

Associated Press photographer Charles Ryan reported from Chau Doc that the boat had been tied alongside a barge in midstream. He said Navy sources reported some of the crew had been drinking aboard the barge and meanwhile the current swung the barge around. As a result, the boat set out in the wrong direction—toward Cambodia instead of toward its base.

Arrest Pickets At Evandale

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police in suburban Evandale said placard bearing students showed up again early today to picket the strikebound jet engine plant of the General Electric Co. and that a "handful" was arrested.

The picketing, in support of the strikers, blocked gates and stalled traffic until police cleared them away.

The officers did not say just how many were arrested.

damaging a window casing but causing no injuries. Police said the 18-inch-long pipe bomb appeared to be the work of an amateur.

Police then posted special security watches on other GE facilities in the city. Two hours later a foot patrolman discovered a cylindrical metal bomb in a brown paper package in front of GE's headquarters building in Manhattan. Bomb experts deactivated the device.

The anonymous caller dictated his news release-style statement apparently from a pay telephone some distance from Washington. At one point an operator broke in to say that the initial three minutes had elapsed.

"By this action we express our solidarity with the D.C. 9 who are presently on trial in Washington," the caller said. He referred to nine persons accused of ransacking offices of the DOW Chemical Co. in Washington last year.

Bombs caused slight damage to two General Electric Co. facilities in New York City Sunday night not long after an anonymous caller claimed credit for vandalizing a GE office in Washington, D.C., as a protest of the company's war production. No one was hurt by the blasts.

New York police discovered and defused a third bomb early today in front of the GE headquarters building in midtown Manhattan.

The FBI was investigating the incidents. Police offered no speculation on whether they were related.

"We have taken this action to disrupt functioning of the machine of death and oppression," the caller said Sunday to The Associated Press. He said GE was the "second leading producer of armament for the United States government."

He made no mention of the subsequent New York bombs, but said "we are the same group of people" who vandalized three Selective Service centers in Philadelphia Saturday. Two persons were arrested in that incident.

After the telephone tip Washington police and GE officials discovered that papers had been strewn about the floors of GE's 11th floor offices, center of most of its Washington operations. A spokesman said sensitive materials were not disturbed and apparently nothing was stolen. The caller said his group had "liberated and destroyed" GE files.

Late Sunday night a bomb exploded in a two-story, block-long GE warehouse and appliance repair and service center in the Queens section of New York City. Police reported slight damage and no injuries.

Another bomb went off 45 minutes later in a GE appliance repair store in Brooklyn, breaking four panes of glass and

Americans Eat Meat From Cancerous Cows

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans during the last fiscal year ate millions of pounds of beef from cattle that had "cancer eye" or similar tumorous disorders, Agriculture Department records show.

Nearly 103,000 cattle carcasses checked by federal inspectors were held in meat plants until tumorous parts were whittled out. The remainder of the meat was put on the market, according to the statistics.

But the department says the cattle situation differs from chicken processing in which the government requires any bird with a tumorous part be entirely destroyed and not passed on to the consumer.

One distinction, say federal authorities, is that leukosis or chicken cancer virus may be spread throughout the bird while a localized tumor on a cow's head has no relation with the roast on her rump.

Red meat animals such as cattle, hogs and sheep are so anatomically different, says Agriculture Department experts, that comparisons with poultry are limited except on aesthetic grounds.

But last week Dr. Jesse L. Steinfeld, U.S. surgeon general, told the Agriculture Department, a ban on diseased poultry should continue "predominantly on aesthetic" grounds and because scientists do not have all the answers.

Of the 103,000 cows temporarily held back in fiscal 1969, 168

carcasses had carcinoma—involving tumors which may appear anywhere in the body—and 102,669 having epithelioma, a tumorous condition of the eye.

The total represented a fraction of more than 3.3 million cattle carcasses detained briefly in meat plants while parts were cut out because of other diseases and injuries ranging from adhesions to tuberculosis.

In all, the 1968-69 report shows, more than 10 per cent of the 39.1 million cattle carcasses approved by federal inspectors underwent some postmortem whittling for removal of offending parts.

Dr. Joseph S. Stein, head of slaughter inspection for the department, said cutting away an infected part from a red meat animal is no worse than a housewife removing a spot from an apple and using the rest of it for a pie.

Arabs, Israelis Trade Attacks

Israeli and Egyptian jets traded strikes across the northern Suez Canal today as the little summit meeting of Israel's chief Arab foes drew to a close in Cairo.

carcasses had carcinoma—involving tumors which may appear anywhere in the body—and 102,669 having epithelioma, a tumorous condition of the eye.

The total represented a fraction of more than 3.3 million cattle carcasses detained briefly in meat plants while parts were cut out because of other diseases and injuries ranging from adhesions to tuberculosis.

In all, the 1968-69 report shows, more than 10 per cent of the 30.1 million cattle carcasses approved by federal inspectors underwent some postmortem whittling for removal of offending parts.

Dr. Joseph S. Stein, head of slaughter inspection for the department, said cutting away an infected part from a red meat animal is no worse than a housewife removing a spot from an apple and using the rest of it for a pie.

Shultz Backs Nixon Plan For Families

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Praising the Nixon Administration's Family Assistance Plan, Labor Secretary George P. Shultz said Sunday night "we have to move fast if we are going to save a generation of Americans from the meaningless, vicious and hopeless cycle of dependency."

Shultz called the present Aid to Families with Dependent Children program "a national disaster area of gigantic proportions" and said it "simply does not work."

Partial reform also won't work, he said. "It would be like trying to partially reform the bubonic plague."

He said the administration plan "reassures through recognition of human dignity the fact of brotherhood."

Shultz outlined seven ways he said the Family Assistance Plan would "promote work . . . and offer hope."

The administration plan encourages the welfare mother to work, and would permit the mother to keep the first $60 of monthly earnings plus one-half all income over that amount.

The plan, said Shultz, would eliminate the "situation where those who do not work receive higher incomes than those who work."

The labor secretary spoke at the annual dinner of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. Thomas Vail, publisher and editor of The Plain Dealer and a director of the Associated Press, received the Human Relations Award of the NCCJ at the dinner.

Held For Murder

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Police have charged Webb Glenn, 67, with second-degree murder in the shooting of his landlady. They said Dorothy L. Brown, 41, was shot to death early Sunday in her rooming house.

Expect Upturn At Midyear After Slide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul W. McCracken, chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, says the administration probably will act to ease the tight monetary policies established to cool down the economy.

"Clearly, a continuation through 1970 of the rather restrictive policies that we had in 1969 would not be consistent with the outlook that we indicated" in the President's economic report, McCracken said Sunday.

McCracken joined other government economists over the weekend in declaring the administration has succeeded in slowing down the inflation spiral and, with the proper safeguards, without serious threat of a recession.

Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy, along with McCracken and Budget Director Robert P. Mayo and Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns, indicated the economy will continue to coast down for the next few months.

"Then," Kennedy said, "we will level out sometime this year to a more sustainable rate and then there will be an increase in activity on a more sustainable basis."

Kennedy, McCracken and Mayo appeared on NBC's Sunday interview program "Meet the Press."

McCracken didn't say it, but to carry out monetary policy changes will require the cooperation of the independent Federal Reserve Board and Burns.

The Fed, as the board is called, operates on its own to control credit in the nation and therefore the flow of money in the economy, affected only by the President through suggestions and public appeals.

Burns, who served as a top Nixon adviser before being appointed as Fed chairman, indicated to Congress Saturday he may not agree entirely with McCracken's assessment of the need for less restrictive monetary controls.

Tight rein on government spending and adherence to the current program of monetary restraint are among the most important factors in fighting inflation, he said.

Increased productivity, he said, is the way to a restored economy not a general increase in the money supply. That "could lead to a disastrous inflation," Burns told the House Banking and Currency Committee.

Burns also said the slowdown in business and employment is not a recession, but a "readjustment" which will continue in the next few months with a decline in housing and jobs.

"But I think it is a healthy thing and I think it will lay the foundation for stable growth in the future," he said.

Claim Red Employe Spy

SEATTLE Wash. (AP) — A Soviet employe of the United Nations refuses to comment on charges of espionage against him. The State Department, the FBI in Washington and the Soviet mission to the United Nations also are keeping quiet on the case.

Aleksandr Vassilevich Tikhomirov, 37, remained in city jail on an FBI complaint which said he had conspired with Russian agents and "other persons unknown" since Jan. 4, 1969, to obtain information about U.S. defenses.

An unidentified official of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D.C., visited Tikhomirov in his cell for about 30 minutes Sunday, but made no attempt to post bail.

Bail of $100,000 was set Saturday by U.S. Commissioner Walter J. Reseburg Jr., who scheduled a hearing Wednesday.

As an employe of the U.N. Secretariat, Tikhomirov had unlimited freedom to travel in the United States.

Questions Taxpayers Ask

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. My tax forms came all right but my son's didn't even though he is now working fulltime. What should he do?

A. A tax forms package is mailed each year to everyone who filed a return the previous year. If your son filed last year, he should have received one by now. If not, he can obtain 1969 tax forms and instructions at a local IRS office, post office, or bank.

Q. I'm single but I do support my niece who lives with me. Can I file as head of household?

A. If your niece qualifies as your dependent, you may be able to file as head of household. Check your 1040 instructions for details.

Q. If I seek outside help with my tax return, how should I go about it?

A. Call your local accounting, legal or tax practitioner association and ask them for the names of qualified people.

In choosing someone, here are things to look for: avoid the man who "guarantees" you a refund, 2. be on guard if he suggests the refund be sent to his address.

You are legally responsible for every item on the return even though someone else has helped you prepare it. So you should never sign a blank tax return or one that has been prepared in pencil.

Your advisor should sign the return too, indicating that he helped you with it.

Be sure the return you file has the pre-addressed label on it that came with your tax form package. The top label can be lifted off the form it came on and put on another, if necessary. Double check the information on the label for accuracy. Corrections may be made on the label itself.

Q. Where should I send my tax return?

A. Send it to the IRS service center for your district. An envelope addressed to the service center was included in all tax packages. If you have misplaced yours, look in the 1040 instructions (page 1040-1) for the address to use.

Q. My son is in the Service and last week he got his W-2 forms from a former employer. Does he have to file a tax return?

A. Yes, if his income was $600 or more last year. A return also has to be filed to obtain a refund of withheld taxes even if income was less than $900. However, if he is stationed overseas, he has additional time to file his return.

Taxpayers out of the country have an automatic extension from April 15 to June 15 to file 1969 returns. If your son is in Vietnam, his return isn't due until 180 days after he leaves that area.

Q. Are medicare premiums deductible?

A. Yes, premiums for Medicare and other medical insurance are deductible if you itemize expenses in your return using Schedule A.

Don't forget that medical insurance premiums are handled differently than other medical expenses. One half of these premiums up to a maximum of $150 may be deducted without regard for the 3 per cent limitation generally imposed on medical expenses. The balance is included with your other medical expenses.

Details on deducting medical insurance premiums and other medical expenses can be found on the back of Schedule A.

Q. Is interest from U.S. Savings Bonds taxable?

A. Yes, this interest income is taxable and can either be reported each year as it is earned or all at once when the bonds are redeemed or when they mature. If you elect the yearly method of reporting, you must continue with it on all future bond purchases until you obtain permission from the IRS to change the method of reporting.

The interest from the savings bonds should be added to your interest income from other sources and entered on line 13 of Form 1040. If the amount is $100 or less, only the total need be entered.

When interest income is over $100, the amounts and the source must be reported on Schedule B. This schedule should be attached to your Form 1040.

Q. A check I wrote in December to a charity was not cashed until this January. Does this mean I can't deduct it on my 1969 return?

A. You may take the deduction in the year you wrote and mailed the check.

Americans . . .

Therein lies another significant difference between poultry and red meat animals, Stein told a reporter.

With one possible exception, "there is no tumorous disease of cattle which is known to be even associated at this present stage of the game with a virus" affecting humans, Stein said.

The only possibility, he said, is malignant lymphoma, which in cattle may be "somewhat similar" to human leukemia and the leukosis in chickens.

But when this disease is detected, Stein said, the entire carcass is condemned as human food. There were 4,831 such rejections last year.

Moreover, he said, if cancer eye is found to have spread to the animal's lymph system—sort of a filter apparatus—the entire carcass also is condemned.

Stein said 60 years of experience has shown these methods to be a satisfactory, safe and acceptable procedure and that new federal meat regulations expected to be adopted soon will continue the practice.

National Health Insurance May Replace Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress will face great pressure to turn medicare and medicare into some form of national health insurance unless the rapid increase in medical costs is halted, a Senate staff report says.

In a report released Sunday after a year of work, the Finance Committee staff recommends establishing maximum fees for doctors under the two big government programs as one way of slowing health expenses.

"The charges for adequate nongovernment health insurance are rising to levels beyond the financial capacity of millions of hardworking Americans," the report said.

If these are not slowed, the staff said, "Congress may reasonably anticipate increased pressures upon it to extend the medicare and medicare programs to encompass large segments of the population not now covered"—in other words, some kind of national health insurance.

The committee has not endorsed the report specifically. However, it was praised by Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., and Sen. John J. Williams R-Delaware, senior Republican member.

Both said they were confident at least some of the recommendations would be adopted by Congress this year.

The staff proposals included suggestions for reducing charges by physicians, hospitals and nursing homes, and for instituting far more effective controls by the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

The staff said medicare, which covers all persons over 65, now costs $8.3 billion a year.

Q. Where should I send my tax return?

A. Send it to the IRS service center for your district. An envelope addressed to the service center was included in all tax packages. If you have misplaced yours, look in the 1040 instructions (page 1040-1) for the address to use.

Q. My son is in the Service and last week he got his W-2 forms from a former employer. Does he have to file a tax return?

A. Yes, if his income was $600 or more last year. A return also has to be filed to obtain a refund of withheld taxes even if income was less than $600. However, if he is stationed overseas, he has additional time to file his return.

Taxpayers out of the country have an automatic extension from April 15 to June 15 to file 1969 returns. If your son is in Vietnam, his return isn't due until 180 days after he leaves that area.

Q. Are Medicare premiums deductible?

A. Yes, premiums for Medicare and other medical insurance are deductible if you itemize expenses in your return using Schedule A.

Don't forget that medical insurance premiums are handled differently than other medical expenses. One half of these premiums up to a maximum of $150 may be deducted without regard for the 3 per cent limitation generally imposed on medical expenses. The balance is included with your other medical expenses.

Details on deducting medical insurance premiums and other medical expenses can be found on the back of Schedule A.

Q. Is interest from U.S. Savings Bonds taxable?

A. Yes, this interest income is taxable and can either be reported each year as it is earned or all at once when the bonds are redeemed or when they mature. If you elect the yearly method of reporting, you must continue with it on all future bond purchases until you obtain permission from the IRS to change the method of reporting.

The interest from the savings bonds should be added to your interest income from other sources and entered on line 13 of Form 1040. If the amount is $100 or less, only the total need be entered.

When interest income is over $100, the amounts and the source must be reported on Schedule B. This schedule should be attached to your Form 1040.

Q. A check I wrote in December to a charity was not cashed until this January. Does this mean I can't deduct it on my 1969 return?

A. You may take the deduction in the year you wrote and mailed the check.

Americans . . .

Therein lies another significant difference between poultry and red meat animals, Stein told a reporter.

With one possible exception, "there is no tumorous disease of cattle which is known to be even associated at this present stage of the game with a virus" affecting humans, Stein said.

The only possibility, he said, is malignant lymphoma, which in cattle may be "somewhat similar" to human leukemia and the leukosis in chickens.

But when this disease is detected, Stein said, the entire carcass is condemned as human food. There were 4,831 such rejections last year.

Moreover, he said, if cancer eye is found to have spread to the animal's lymph system—sort of a filter apparatus—the entire carcass also is condemned.

Stein said 60 years of experience has shown these methods to be a satisfactory, safe and acceptable procedure and that new federal meat regulations expected to be adopted soon will continue the practice.

National Health Insurance May Replace Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress will face great pressure to turn medicare and medicaid into some form of national health insurance unless the rapid increase in medical costs is halted, a Senate staff report says.

In a report released Sunday after a year of work, the Finance Committee staff recommends establishing maximum fees for doctors under the two big government programs as one way of slowing health expenses.

"The charges for adequate nongovernment health insurance are rising to levels beyond the financial capacity of millions of hardworking Americans," the report said.

If these are not slowed, the staff said, "Congress may resonably anticipate increased pressures upon it to extend the medicare and medicaid programs to encompass large segments of the population not now covered"—in other words, some kind of national health insurance.

The committee has not endorsed the report specifically. However, it was praised by Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., and Sen. John J. Williams R-Delaware, senior Republican member.

Both said they were confident at least some of the recommendations would be adopted by Congress this year.

The staff proposals included suggestions for reducing charges by physicians, hospitals and nursing homes, and for instituting far more effective controls by the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

The staff said medicare, which covers all persons over 65, now costs $8.3 billion a year.

Medicaid, designed to aid those on welfare and other poor persons, costs $5.5 billion yearly.

Both exceed original estimates, the report said. Many overpayments and other types of abuses on the part of doctors were found, the staff said.

It said maximum doctors' fees could be based on revenue obtainable from present monthly payments of $4 each by subscribers to medicare part B and by the government.

The Nixon administration has said these will be raised to $5.30 effective July 1.

The staff plan would keep the $4 rate and eliminate the $50 a year deductible which each subscriber must now pay.

The report skirts the touchy question of how many doctors might join such a plan. Now each physician can set his own fee but he is supposed to be reimbursed only on the basis of a reasonable charge.

Senate Probes Marietta Fire; Rap U.S. Standards

WASHINGTON (AP)—A senator probing an Ohio nursing home fire that killed 32 patients charged today the government's fire safety standards are old, weak and inadequate.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, criticized the standards on fabrics for permitting approval of a quick-burning carpet blamed in the fire at Marietta, Ohio, one month ago.

Moss said not a single new fire safety standard had been set for textile products despite Congress' passage of the Flammable Fabrics Act two years ago.

He also seared medicare officials for lacking firm regulations on fire safety in nursing homes.

Moss made the charges as his Senate subcommittee opened hearings on the fire at the Harman House Convalescent Center at Marietta. The Ohio disaster was the second worst nursing home fire in the nation in the last decade.

Smoke inhalation was blamed by authorities for the heavy death toll. A report by the Ohio fire marshal last month said, "The carpeting and the rubber-backing on the carpeting contributed to the spread of the fire and was the cause of the heavy, dense black smoke."

Moss said the Commerce Department's present test for carpet fire safety was limited to checking how quickly a chemical pill would ignite the material. He called the testing method inadequate.

The Marietta carpet would pass this test, Moss said. He promised a demonstration at the hearings.

The Ohio fire marshal's office, after separate tests last month, reported the carpeting burned very rapidly, in addition to giving off thick smoke.

Moss said he felt "a sense of frustration" over the Commerce Department's continued use of 1953 standards for flammable fabrics despite passage of a tougher law two years ago.

He also criticized Ohio's own state fire regulations as "amemic" and said they allowed nursing homes to have Class D finishing materials that burn two to five times as fast as oak.

The worst nursing home disaster in the nation in recent years occurred in the same state in 1963 when a fire at Fitchville, Ohio, killed 63 persons.

Moss said Ohio authorities promised him at hearings in the aftermath of the Fitchville fire that the state's code would become a nationwide model for fire safety. He added, "It isn't far from it."

Plane Crash Fatal To Trio At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — A team of investigators was expected today from the Chicago office of the Federal Aviation Agency to probe the cause of the crash of a single-engine plane that killed three at Greater Cincinnati Airport in Boone County, Ky., Saturday night and seriously injured one.

The dead were identified by the Kentucky State Police Sunday as: James M. Valanti, 47, the pilot of suburban Finneytown, Jan. Gausman, 27, a teacher from College Hill, Karen Brazis, 27, an intern psychologist from the Clifton area.

William Lyle Chevalier, 29, an employee of the Cincinnati Board of Education, was still confined to St. Elizabeth hospital, Covington, Ky., after surgery for face and head injuries.

The four were returning from a YMCA square dance workshop in Pittsburgh, Pa., at the time of the crash.

Set Shakeup In Manila

MANILA (AP) — The head of the Filipino national police resigned Sunday and President Ferdinand Marcos replaced seven members of his government, but students and labor leaders scheduled another big demonstration against the government Thursday.

Fears of more violence arose in the wake of the student attack on the presidential palace Jan. 30 in which five youths were killed, more than a dozen wounded and 120 treated in hospitals.

Organizers predict a turnout of 20,000 students, government employees and laborers Thursday night for the demonstration in downtown Manila. Leaders of one of two radical groups scheduled to take part in the rally said the meeting will be held even if the mayor refuses them a permit.

The students are protesting the 28 per cent unemployment rate in the cities, failure to implement land reform in a country where 39 per cent of farmers are landless, widespread corruption among officials and the vast powers held by the president's office.

Cause of Headaches Usually Not in Head

In an issue of Today's Health, a publication of the AMA, Dr. Adrian M. Ostfeld of the University of Illinois College of Medicine says about 95% of headaches do not originate in the head, but result from conditions elsewhere in the body.

"The headache is probably the result of a release of 'pain substances' from nerve ends in the scalp, at the same time that arteries in the head have become dilated due to one 'cause' or another," he said. "This sounds much like excerpts from a chiropractic textbook. For over sixty-four years chiropractic has taught that headaches nearly always result from nerve interference and related cerebrospinal pressures — and that's the 'cause' referred to above."

Dr. Ostfeld pointed out that, "Unpleasant as they are, headaches serve as an important warning signal of both mental and physical problems." He further explained, "Oddly enough, acetylsalicylate, aspirin, is an old standby, but we are still not exactly sure what it does do."

Chiropractors know what to do for most headaches. Statistics from the Swartz Research Report of the National Chiropractic Association show that out of 1641 non-migraine headaches studied under chiropractic care, 83.2% recovered or greatly improved, 11.1% slightly improved, 5.1% same, .6% worse. Of 210 migraine cases studied, 86.6% recovered or greatly improved, 8.1% slightly improved, 2.9% same, 2.4% worse. The following case from our files is now among the fortunate 80% that get well.

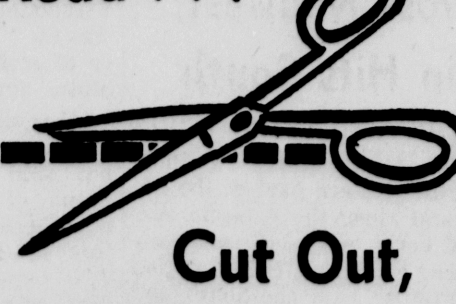

This attractive 44 year old business-woman suffered violent headaches and severe tension pains in back of her head, down into her neck and between her shoulders. For two long, miserable years she made all the rounds. Steadily, she grew congested in her head and eyes, it blurred my vision," she said. Her blood pressure was 160/98. One of her employees, a analysis located areas of severe nerve interference at both the top and bottom of her spine. X-rays enabled the doctor of chiropractic to realign the offending vertebral displacements and her violent headaches and tension pains gradually, but naturally vanished. Her blood pressure returned to normal.

Nerves connect to every organ and are responsible for many malfunctions, including headaches. If you are still suffering in spite of your efforts, investigate! It only takes a few minutes to see what nerve disturbances are causing your headaches.

Presented in the public interest for better health through chiropractic by the Circleville Chiropractic Center under the auspices of the Central Ohio Chiropractic Association.

Williamsport News

By EILEEN EASTERDAY — Phone 986-3481

Pretty Patricia Metzger, Deputy Registrar for Williamsport and Community stopped by with a news release concerning the 1970 automobile license plates. She announces that she will start reserving plates Feb. 16, 1970. Anyone desiring to reserve their present license number should file application on or before March 7, 1970 and do be sure to take the certificate of title and 1969 registration card — you must have these two items when filing your application for new license plates.

Office hours for the reserving of the tags will be according to the following schedule: Monday, 1 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.; Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, 9 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.; Friday, 1 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

It is suggested by pretty Pat that you file application for farm trucks, commercial trucks, and trailers early to avoid the last minute rush. Now do remember — there will be no reserved numbers after March 7, 1970. Office hours will be somewhat different for the sale of tags on a regular basis but so as not to confuse the issue I will forward those hours later on. At the moment we are concerned with getting you the information for reserved numbers and as mentioned before — trucks and trailers.

Brightening up these parts with their own special kind of glow were George and Marilyn Lemaster and their images. Stephanie, Paula, Cathy and Joe. They head-quartered for the weekend with Donnie Bill and Ruth Schleich and girls.

They visited with Marvie baby and Dolly Thompson and family, their parents of the Circleville area and Howard and Norma Lemaster (brother). I saw that good-looking Joe (we used to call him Joey) at the Westfall-Southeastern basketball game and for those who didn't see him while he was here let me tell you he is still our Joey. St. Albans, W. Va., hasn't changed him much since the family moved there quite some time ago. Ruth tells me it took several hours (like the wee hours of the a.m.) for she and Marilyn to win just one card game over the fellows. Now, girls, that's what I call being a really good sport — letting them win all those games.

Speaking of games, I was most disturbed and distressed at the Saturday night basketball game with several of our young people. My goodness, don't they know that during the national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner," it is properly respectful to stand quietly? You don't giggle, talk and wiggle around in the hallways, that's for sure, and many were doing just that. From where I stand waving my flag, it seems a good dose of patriotism needs to be instilled in these youngsters. And, yes, I do know where my son was during all this. I had my eagle eye glued in his direction and he and his friends were giving the respect due the occasion and you better believe it had best be thus.

Party Time

Birthdays are special and Jeff Fullen reached a milestone in his life last Friday when he celebrated his sixth. The best way of all to celebrate is to have a party so daddy and mommie, Steve and Onda and little sister Tami planned one for the honored guest and invited guests were: Carl and Dorothy McCoy (Onda's parents) of New Holland, Uncle Ronnie and Aunt Nancy McCoy and cousins Lisa, Gina and Kevin of Washington C. H., Bob and Linda Diltz and little Julie, Richard Reisinger, Gary and Sandy Wisecup, little Tracey and close buddy Brian, all of Williamsport. The traditional cake and candles with ice cream were served complete with party hats for the younger ones. Cousin Kevin spent the night with Jeff, too.

Earlier in the day birthday cupcakes had been served to all of Jeff's kindergarten classmates. Mama Onda was assisted in this loving chore by the teacher Mrs. Robert (Jo) Hamman. There are 21 lively "kindergartners" this year and teacher Jo is doing a wonderful job with them. The Kindergarten Mothers are headed up by president, Onda Fullen.

The measles and flu are still making life miserable for any number of our people and high absenteeism remains at the local schools. Principal Richard Everman at Jackson Twp. school returned to class Wednesday. Pearl Cochenour has been in bed seriously ill for several days. Now, "Lil" Charlie (Faith Ann) Picklesimer has been quite ill, too.

Expected home this weekend from his senior studies at Otterbein is Steve Steinhauer, son of Gene (also called Don) and Glenna Steinhauer.

Happy Birthday

For once I am about two weeks ahead on birthdays so if there is one in particular you want to remember take the time to mark your calendar this minute. Sue Steinhauer Banks, Janie Henson, Ruth (Mrs. Nathan) Wilson, Feb. 16; Bessie Miller, Billy Keller, David Terry Myers, Willard Seymour, Feb. 17; Jackie Easter, David Drummond, Steve Pitt, Alma (Mrs. Homer) Long, Feb. 18; Dale Vernon Elliott Jr., Jill Steinhauer, Janice Schooley Metzger, Feb. 19; Pamela Pitt, Rosalie Reeser, Jim (the fisherman) Howell, Feb. 20; Janelle Thompson, little Jeff Carpenter (he expects to have a new brother or sister very soon) Feb. 21.

Thank You

How does one effectively express to others how appreciative, grateful and overwhelmed one is at the generous acts of kindness extended? A sincerely stated thank you should do the trick and that's what my good friend, Auntie Glenna Wisecup extends to all those participating last Saturday in the improving of the Williamsport school play area. In this kind of weather the ground round the play equipment becomes a real mudhole but that has been remedied with the donation of crushed stone by D. E. Goodchild, and Bob Haines of Hal-Mar, Beeman Speakman who donated a truck to haul the stone and the following workers provided the backbone and muscle to spread the stone in the strategic spots: Bill Horch, Darrell Wisecup, Mike McCafferty, Paul Smith, Marvin and Dolly Thompson, Aunt Glenna, Rhonda Patterson, Debbie Krahn, and in keeping with family tradition of helping out the Thompson four, Debbie, Shirley, Vicki and Brad. Hey! Rev. Ed Linville, what happened to the coffee — did the pot develop a leak?

Here for a visit with Don and Lucille Greene, Susie and John is Don's brother Bill of Rochester, Indiana. Don, by the way, is quite talented in the field of art. I've seen a few of his paintings and they are really good. I know I am not an art critic but I also know what I like and his paintings I like!

The days have been a-buzz with activity at the home of Faye Hollis since last Tuesday because her sister Mrs. Bob (Betty) Boggs and their little niece and nephew Bryan and Krista Stonerock (Tom's children) have been here from their Middletown home. They plan to leave today (Friday).

Joy Lynne, Connie and Sandee Drummond had a fun weekend with grandpa and grandma Bode (Doyen and Kathleen, that is) of Adelphi. David and Marabel Drummond joined with other couples of the Adena Farmers Group for dinner and the theater (hoity toity, huh?) at Columbus Saturday night.

ON THE MOVE

Steve and Nancy Stonerock

Pitt have moved from the Sina Bowman property and are temporarily with Nancy's folks, Charles and Eldean Stonerock, until the place where they plan to live is ready. Nancy has resigned her job at a local super market and will announce a new one soon.

Byron and Ethel Carter and their adorable little Lisa are snugly ensconced in their newly purchased home (formerly Ernie Hill's). They came close to having an exceptionally warm welcome — it seems Byron was burning boxes used in the moving process and a pile of nearby leaves caught fire and for a while threatened to get out of hand. The local fire department was summoned but the fire had been quelled with no damage.

Harvey and Jane Easter and their Karen, Tammy, Jackie, Dannie, along with daughter Dora Kay Napieracz and grandson Dana Joseph Napieracz have moved from the Wolford property on Hornbeck-Garver Rd. to their recently purchased Clark house. Fifth grader Tammy and pre-schooler Jackie have been measles victims and to make matters worse Tammy also had a severe case of flu. Jackie is scheduled to undergo surgery Feb. 18, which is, of all days, her birthday.

Hoping for another beautiful week-end (weather wise and health wise) is Miss Judy Wright, daughter of Joe and Nellie, since one of her teen-age friends, Miss Sharon Kay Goldsberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Goldsberry of Washington C. H. is expected for a fun visit.

As we all know, last weekend was glorious and our Becki spent Saturday overnight and all day Sunday with her good buddy, Ruth Beck and her parents Mr. and Mrs. John Beck and brothers, John, Tommy and Mark of Circleville. On Sunday afternoon they all took advantage of the spring like weather and toured Old Man's Cave. Terry Dountz and Fred Archer added their wit and wisdom for an essential part of the afternoon's joy. Ah! turn back, oh turn back, time in thy flight, make me a teenager again just for tonight! (to paraphrase)

Steel Demand Could Hurt Shipments

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — U.S. steel shipments could be impaired overnight not only by railroad or trucking strikes but by a strong increase in demand, Industry Week magazine said today.

"Steel operations have been in a downturn and this has helped avoid a true shipping crisis," the magazine said, observing that the delivery system is now "stretched about as tight as it can go without breaking."

The publication said present railroad labor troubles and the threat of possible strikes later by the Teamsters Union or the Fraternal Association of Steel-haulers were all hanging heavy over both steel mills and steel consumers.

It said most steel users have had no major problems with shipping delays, although the scrap industry "charges the railroads are putting it in a bind by taking care of steel needs first."

Industry Week, formerly Steel magazine, estimated domestic raw steel production last week at 2,521,000 net tons, down from the 2,546,000 tons of the week before.

The magazine's price composite on No. 1 heavy melting grade steelmaking scrap jumped from its previous $41.17 to $45.91 last week, its highest level since September of 1957.

Lukens Explains Views On Taxation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—U.S. Rep. Donald E. Lukens, seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination, says economy in government may avoid the need to increase taxes in Ohio.

But, Lukens told a state convention of Ohio Jaycees here Saturday, if new taxes are needed, he would put them on items he feels consumers can cut down on or do without, such as cigarettes, liquor and gasoline or licenses for hunting, fishing and automobiles.

Williamsport News

By EILEEN EASTERDAY — Phone 986-3481

Pretty Patricia Metzger, Deputy Registrar for Williamsport and Community stopped by with a news release concerning the 1970 automobile license plates. She announces that she will start reserving plates Feb. 16, 1970. Anyone desiring to reserve their present license number should file application on or before March 7, 1970 and be sure to take the certificate of title and 1969 registration card — you must have these two items when filing your application for new license plates.

Office hours for the reserving of the tags will be according to the following schedule: Monday, 1 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.; Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, 9 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.; Friday, 1 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

It is suggested by pretty Pat that you file application for farm trucks, commercial trucks, and trailers early to avoid the last minute rush. Now do remember — there will be no reserved numbers after March 7, 1970. Office hours will be somewhat different for the sale of tags on a regular basis but so as not to confuse the issue I will forward those hours later on. At the moment we are concerned with getting you the information for reserved numbers and as mentioned before — trucks and trailers.

Brightening up these parts with their own special kind of glow were George and Marilyn Lemaster and their images, Stephanie, Paula, Cathy and Joe. They head-quartered for the weekend with Donnie Bill and Ruth Schleich and girls.

They visited with Marvie baby and Dolly Thompson and family, their parents of the Circleville area and Howard and Norma Lemaster (brother). I saw that good-looking Joe (we used to call him Joey) at the Westfall-Southeastern basketball game and for those who didn't see him while he was here let me tell you he is still our Joey. St. Albans, W. Va., hasn't changed him much since the family moved there quite some time ago. Ruth tells me it took several hours (like the wee hours of the a.m.) for she and Marilyn to win just one card game over the fellows. Now, girls, that's what I call being a really good sport — letting them win all those games.

Speaking of games, I was most disturbed and distressed at the Saturday night basketball game with several of our young people. My goodness, don't they know that during the national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner," it is properly respectful to stand quietly? You don't giggle, talk and wiggle around in the hallways, that's for sure, and many were doing just that. From where I stand waving my flag, it seems a good dose of patriotism needs to be instilled in these youngsters. And, yes, I do know where my son was during all this. I had my eagle eye glued in his direction and he and his friends were giving the respect due the occasion and you better believe it had best be thus.

Party Time
Birthdays are special and Jeff Fullen reached a milestone in his life last Friday when he celebrated his sixth. The best way of all to celebrate is to have a party so daddy and mommie, Steve and Onda and little sister Tami planned one for the honored guest and invited guests were: Carl and Dorothy McCoy (Onda's parents) of New Holland, Uncle Ronnie and Aunt Nancy McCoy and cousins Lisa, Gina and Kevin of Washington C. H., Bob and Linda Diltz and little Julie, Richard Reisinger, Gary and Sandy Wisecup, little Tracey and close buddy Brian, all of Williamsport. The traditional cake and candles with ice cream were served complete with party hats for the younger ones. Cousin Kevin spent the night with Jeff, too.

Earlier in the day birthday cupcakes had been served to all of Jeff's kindergarten classmates. Mama Onda was assisted in this loving chore by the teacher Mrs. Robert (Jo) Hamman. There are 21 lively "kindergartners" this year and teacher Jo is doing a wonderful job with them. The Kindergarten Mothers are headed up by president, Onda Fullen.

The measles and flu are still making life miserable for any number of our people and high absenteeism remains at the local schools. Principal Richard Everman at Jackson Twp. school returned to class Wednesday. Pearl Cochenour has been in bed seriously ill for several days, now. "Lil" Charlie (Faith Ann) Picklesimer has been quite ill, too.

Expected home this weekend from his senior studies at Otterbein is Steve Steinhauser, son of Gene (also called Don) and Glenna Steinhauser.

Happy Birthday

For once I am about two weeks ahead on birthdays so if there is one in particular you want to remember take the time to mark your calendar this minute. Sue Steinhauser Banks, Janie Henson, Ruth (Mrs. Nathan) Wilson, Feb. 16; Bessie Miller, Billy Keller, David Terry Myers, Willard Seymour, Feb. 17; Jackie Easter, David Drummond, Steve Pitt, Alma (Mrs. Homer) Long, Feb. 18; Dale Vernon Elliott Jr., Jill Steinhauser, Janice Schooley Metzger, Feb. 19; Pamela Pitt, Rosalie Reeser, Jim (the fisherman) Howell, Feb. 20; Janelle Thompson, little Jeff Carpenter (he expects to have a new brother or sister very soon) Feb. 21.

Thank You

How does one effectively express to others how appreciative, grateful and overwhelmed one is at the generous acts of kindness extended? A sincerely stated thank you should do the trick and that's what my good friend, Auntie Glenna Wisecup extends to all those participating last Saturday in the improving of the Williamsport school play area. In this kind of weather the ground round the play equipment becomes a real mudhole but that has been remedied with the donation of crushed stone by D. E. Goodchild, and Bob Haines of Hal-Mar, Beeman Speakman who donated a truck to haul the stone and the following workers provided the backbone and muscle to spread the stone in the strategic spots: Bill Horch, Darrell Wisecup, Mike McCafferty, Paul Smith, Marvin and Dolly Thompson, Aunt Glenna, Rhonda Patterson, Debbie Krahn, and in keeping with family tradition of helping out the Thompson four, Debbie, Shirley, Vicki and Brad. Hey! Rev. Ed Linville, what happened to the coffee — did the pot develop a leak?

Here for a visit with Don and Lucille Greene, Susie and John is Don's brother Bill of Rochester, Indiana. Don, by the way, is quite talented in the field of art. I've seen a few of his paintings and they are really good. I know I am not an art critic but I also know what I like and his paintings I like!

The days have been a-buzz with activity at the home of Faye Hollis since last Tuesday because her sister Mrs. Bob (Betty) Boggs and their little niece and nephew Bryan and Krista Stonerock (Tom's children) have been here from their Middletown home. They plan to leave today (Friday).

Joy Lynne, Connie and Sandee Drummond had a fun weekend with grandpa and grandma Bode (Doyen and Kathleen, that is) of Adelphi. David and Marabel Drummond joined with other couples of the Adena Farmers Group for dinner and the theater (hoity toity, huh?) at Columbus Saturday night.

ON THE MOVE

Steve and Nancy Stonerock

Pitt have moved from the Sina Bowman property and are temporarily with Nancy's folks, Charles and Eldean Stonerock, until the place where they plan to live is ready. Nancy has resigned her job at a local super market and will announce a new one soon.

Byron and Ethel Carter and their adorable little Lisa are snugly ensconced in their newly purchased home (formerly Ernie Hill's). They came close to having an exceptionally warm welcome — it seems Byron was burning boxes used in the moving process and a pile of nearby leaves caught fire and for a while threatened to get out of hand. The local fire department was summoned but the fire had been quelled with no damage.

Harvey and Jane Easter and their Karen, Tammy, Jackie, Dannie, along with daughter Dora Kay Napieracz and grandson Dana Joseph Napieracz have moved from the Wolford property on Hornbeck-Garver Rd. to their recently purchased Clark house. Fifth grader Tammy and pre-schooler Jackie have been measles victims and to make matters worse Tammy also had a severe case of flu. Jackie is scheduled to undergo surgery Feb. 18, which is, of all days, her birthday.

Hoping for another beautiful week-end (weather wise and health wise) is Miss Judy Wright, daughter of Joe and Nellie, since one of her teen-age friends, Miss Sharon Kay Goldsberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Goldsberry of Washington C. H. is expected for a fun visit.

As we all know, last weekend was glorious and our Becki spent Saturday overnight and all day Sunday with her good buddy, Ruth Beck and her parents Mr. and Mrs. John Beck and brothers, John, Tommy and Mark of Circleville. On Sunday afternoon they all took advantage of the spring like weather and toured Old Man's Cave. Terry Dountz and Fred Archer added their wit and wisdom for an essential part of the afternoon's joy. Ah! turn back, oh turn back, time in thy flight, make me a teenager again just for tonight! (to paraphrase)

Steel Demand Could Hurt Shipments

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — U.S. steel shipments could be impaired overnight not only by railroad or trucking strikes but by a strong increase in demand, Industry Week magazine said today.

"Steel operations have been in a downturn and this has helped avoid a true shipping crisis," the magazine said, observing that the delivery system is now "stretched about as tight as it can go without breaking."

The publication said present railroad labor troubles and the threat of possible strikes later by the Teamsters Union or the Fraternal Association of Steel-haulers were all hanging heavy over both steel mills and steel consumers.

It said most steel users have had no major problems with shipping delays, although the scrap industry "charges the railroads are putting it in a bind by taking care of steel needs first."

Industry Week, formerly Steel magazine, estimated domestic raw steel production last week at 2,521,000 net tons, down from the 2,546,000 tons of the week before.

The magazine's price composite on No. 1 heavy melting grade steelmaking scrap jumped from its previous $41.17 to $45.91 last week, its highest level since September of 1957.

Lukens Explains Views On Taxation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—U.S. Rep. Donald E. Lukens, seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination, says economy in government may avoid the need to increase taxes in Ohio.

But, Lukens told a state convention of Ohio Jaycees here Saturday, if new taxes are needed, he would put them on items he feels consumers can cut down on or do without, such as cigarettes, liquor and gasoline or licenses for hunting, fishing and automobiles.

Chinese Policy Shift

Whatever other motives may have prompted the Red Chinese to resume their talks with the United States in Warsaw after a two-year lapse, it must be assumed the Vietnam war is one of them. It may be the overriding incentive.

Such a motive could have far-reaching implications in the conduct of the war. Until now, Peking has taken an intransigent position on negotiations to end the war, in effect egging Hanoi on to total defeat of the American and South Vietnamese troops.

Russia, which supplies the overwhelming share of Hanoi's armaments, is reported to have been pressing the North Vietnamese to accept something short of a complete military victory.

Behind both of these positions is a deep suspicion between Russia and Red

China of the motives of the other in the affairs of Southeast Asia.

With the inability of the North Vietnamese to achieve a military victory now apparent, the decision of the Chinese to resume formal talks with U.S. representatives could indicate a changing position by Peking on the war. A report to this effect comes from an anonymous Western diplomat.

If true, it could signify the Chinese now fear Russian predominance in the region more than they do the American presence. World politics sometimes takes strange turns, and while the Red Chinese hardly could be called bosom pals of the United States because they resumed talking, they have more up their sleeves than merely reopening diplomatic channels.

Congressional Ethics

A congressional election year provides a timely opportunity for Congress to consider the matter of ethics, and a special ethics committee of the House of Representatives has done just that. It has recommended stringent new rules in the areas of honorariums and unsecured loans from banks for House members.

Honorariums for speaking engagements and other outside activities exceeding $300 would have to be publicly reported, as would unsecured loans in excess of $10,000. The proposed rules, which must yet be passed by the House as a whole, would not prohibit fees nor indebtedness, merely require them to be reported.

The House has suffered embarrassment recently from several of its members. One involved a member of the Banking Committee who at one time had $75,000 in unsecured Bank loans. Another case involves the suspended aide of Speaker McCormack. The aide has been indicted on charges involving conspiracy to arrange special favors.

Requiring the reporting of honorariums and loans will not stop congressmen from receiving them, but spreading such financial dealings on the public record will help impress the recipients with the sensitivity of their positions.

Panthers Make Trouble

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Some of our liberals are worried that we are being mean to the Black Panthers. At the annual meeting of the American Historical Association in Washington, Professor Staughton Lynd, as part of his unsuccessful campaign for the presidency of his professional organization, tried to persuade his fellow historians to picket the Department of Justice in protest against "the harassment of the Black Panther Party." And the American Civil Liberties Union, after a survey of police raids on Black Panther groups in nine metropolitan areas, has protested that the Panthers were subjected to "provocative and even punitive harassment, defying the constitutional rights of Panthers to make political speeches or distribute political literature."

Maybe some Panthers are innocent of the things being charged against the organization by FBI director J. Edgar Hoover, whose files list a hundred or more attacks on the police by extremists who have presumably been moved to action by the Panther "Kill the Pigs" propaganda. According to the FBI, seven policemen have died and many more have been injured in battles between "extremist hate-type organizations such as the Black Panther Party" and the police. With claims and counter-claims being tossed about, it is easy to see why both the Panthers and the police are jittery. But where should the primary blame for the Panther — "pig" confrontation be placed?

The Panthers certainly don't make things easy for themselves. David Hilliard, who calls himself the chief of staff of the Black Panther Party, protests that the statement attributed to him, "We will kill Richard Nixon," was merely a bit of "political rhetoric." But when Panthers boast that they are Marxist and Leninist, meaning that they are for violent revolution, any incendiary announcement by their "chief of staff" must take on more than "rhetorical" significance. At the very least the police are justified in being on their guard. From his refuge in Algeria Eldridge Cleaver, the fugitive Black Panther leader who left America rather than serve a long prison sentence in California on a charge of assault with intent to kill, keeps saying things to provoke J. Edgar Hoover's concern. Cleaver promises the destruction of capitalism in America through revolutionary activity, and says "the war is going to become more and more public and more openly violent." Cleaver cannot, of course, exercise real leadership from a foreign hideout. But the Panthers at home do nothing to reassure the American people that they are exponents of peaceful change. Last summer, in Oakland, California, they staged a Conference for a United Front Against Fascism and invited a spokesman for something called the "American Servicemen's Union" to tell about Communist infiltration of the U.S. Army. The Panthers were regaled with boastful accounts of mutinous activities staged at military bases both in Vietnam and in the U.S. and they cheered a promise that rebellious U.S. soldiers would unite with the Black Panthers to create a violent revolution against the "Fascist" American government.

So is it mere "harassment" when the police and the FBI react to the Hilliard and Cleaver pronouncements by taking them seriously? Maybe the police are overdoing it when they arrest Panthers for distributing papers without a permit, to quote the Civil Liberties Union. But the Panthers have built themselves up as a menace, and liberals who are spotted here and there throughout the American communications media persist in giving a platform to anyone who promises "revolution" and more "pig killing." The whole thing snowballs when the Federal government and local police departments ask for the notes of newspapermen involving cooperation between the Panthers and the violent Weatherman faction of Students for a Democratic Society. If I were one of the newspapermen whose sources might be compromised by such a demand, I would most likely resent it. But the Attorney General of the U.S. and the head of the FBI have a duty to protect the country and when the Panthers and the Weathermen begin to cooperate the FBI has cause for worry. After all, the Weathermen's chief, Mark Rudd, speaking of the coming decade, has said "you can look for pitched battles between the militant groups and the pigs on a scale that will make anything in the Sixties look like a Sunday School picnic."

It could be that the Panthers and the Weathermen are destined to die as organizations because of their incurable factionalism. Until they do, however, they have nobody to blame but themselves for their "harassment."

Laff-A-Day

"Just make sure he knows who has seniority around here!"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE PARSON of a tiny congregation in the Blue Hill Mountains of Virginy rashly lit out one night with the entire church treasury, and the local constable set out to capture him. This he did, dragging the culprit back by the collar a week later. "Here's the varmint, folks," announced the constable grimly. "I'm sorry to say he's already squandered our money, but I drug him back so we can make him preach it out."

A little seven-year-old girl, who had coaxed her daddy into letting her go fishing with him, grew understandably impatient when she failed to get as much as a nibble after more than an hour of bobbing her line up and down in the placid waters of a nearby lake. She suddenly threw her rod into the bottom of the boat and announced, "I don't want to fish any more today, Daddy. I've got a worm that isn't even trying!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our friends, and even we, have noticed a distinctly unpleasant body odor in our 15-year-old daughter. No one else in the family has it. She uses underarm creams and sprays but these do not seem to be effective. Can a physical condition cause this? How can we help her?

Mrs. B.E., Kansas
Dear Mrs. E.: There truly are very few physical disorders responsible for unpleasant body odors. A general physical examination will rule out such a possibility.

We must come face to face with the reality that cleanliness and rigid hygiene are far more important in the control of bad body odor than underarm medications alone.

A group of apocrine glands are responsible for normal, healthy perspiration. Some bacteria seem to flourish on the secretion of these glands and produce bad body odor. There seems to be some advantage in controlling this by shaving underarm hair. Men, to have benefited by cutting their hair shorter.

The most commonly overlooked reason for sustained body odor, even if cleanliness is observed, is the fact that clothes may be saturated with the odor. These should be thoroughly cleaned or even discarded to stop this embarrassing and sometimes socially destructive condition.

On rare occasions, some drugs and foods may be responsible for an odor, but this is usually distinctive from the foul characteristic smell which can pervade a room. A program of supervised cleanliness will undoubtedly help your daughter and avoid the social handicap that accompanies this condition.

Before my wife makes any family decision, even ones of minor importance, she consults an astrologist and then a palm reader. She even does this for medical problems. I don't believe in them and because of this, we pass from crisis to crisis. How do you feel about this nonsense?

Mr. H.B., Massachusetts
Dear Mr. B.: It is an accepted fact that it is impossible to win an argument that involves politics and religion. My advice is that we add palm reading and astrology to these "lost causes." I have tried to dissuade patients from both, only to find that a valuable relationship between us can be disturbed. So, in a mature way, I gave up and just let the enthusiasts for palm reading and astrology fulfill whatever their needs are in these vague and questionable "sciences."

My only plea to them and also to your wife, is that medical decisions remain in the province of the well trained physician rather than in the star-gazers.

It is surprising how much inner strength many of us possess. It is self-replenishing if we use it.

Carol Burnett Show

By GENE HANDSAKER
(For Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Carol Burnett must be doing something right. This is the third year of her weekly variety show — and her best in the ratings.

Her Monday night romp on CBS has been placing in the top 10 and the reason can't merely be the weakness of the opposition. The comedienne believes it's because the people on her show try harder.

"Our show reflects a lot of care," she said during a break at CBS Television City. "The sketches are well constructed and carefully rehearsed; they've got to hold up, because some of them last for 20 minutes."

Another factor that may be in her favor: she is the only female star to headline her own variety show (the Lennon Sisters share the billing with Jimmy Durante). She adds to the feminine touch by sharing the show with other famous ladies.

Her reasoning: "I've always enjoyed seeing two more or less equal performers work together. I love to watch Bob Hope exchanging quips with Jack Benny. Or Andy Williams singing with Steve Lawrence or Bob Goulet. And what could be greater than Fred Astaire and Gene Kelly dancing together?"

For that reason I love working with Martha Raye or Natalie Fabray or the other girls I have on the show. There is no sense of competition whatsoever. In fact, sometimes I end up giving them routines that had been written for me, merely because the material seemed better suited for them."

With The Carol Burnett Show thriving in the Nielsen's, there can be no doubt that CBS will renew it for a fourth season. That would be just dandy with her.

"Frankly, doing this show is like stealing money," she said. "The hours are remarkably easy. Most days I don't arrive until noon. Except for the nights of orchestra rehearsal and the actual taping, we're home by 6 o'clock, so we can have dinner with the children." By "we," she means herself and husband Joe Hamilton, the show's producer.

For a personality who says she likes to avoid controversy, Carol has had quite a bit lately. First there was her appearance on The Merv Griffin Show, which was cut by CBS because of her pitch for postcards in behalf of People for Peace. She's still upset at the network for that, but absolves Griffin of any blame.

On a recent Bob Newhart special, Don Adams said in a roundtable discussion on comedy that Carol was an example of the triumph of talent over mediocre material. Said Carol, rising to defend her writers: "I'm not mad at Don, but I am angry with the producer, who took Don's remarks out of context of a 25-minute discussion."

Hatlo's They'll Do It Every Time

Chinese Policy Shift

Whatever other motives may have prompted the Red Chinese to resume their talks with the United States in Warsaw after a two-year lapse, it must be assumed the Vietnam war is one of them. It may be the overriding incentive.

Such a motive could have far-reaching implications in the conduct of the war. Until now, Peking has taken an intransigent position on negotiations to end the war, in effect egging Hanoi on to total defeat of the American and South Vietnamese troops.

Russia, which supplies the overwhelming share of Hanoi's armaments, is reported to have been pressing the North Vietnamese to accept something short of a complete military victory.

Behind both of these positions is a deep suspicion between Russia and Red

China of the motives of the other in the affairs of Southeast Asia.

With the inability of the North Vietnamese to achieve a military victory now apparent, the decision of the Chinese to resume formal talks with U.S. representatives could indicate a changing position by Peking on the war. A report to this effect comes from an anonymous Western diplomat.

If true, it could signify the Chinese now fear Russian predominance in the region more than they do the American presence. World politics sometimes takes strange turns, and while the Red Chinese hardly could be called bosom pals of the United States because they resumed talking, they have more up their sleeves than merely reopening diplomatic channels.

Congressional Ethics

A congressional election year provides a timely opportunity for Congress to consider the matter of ethics, and a special ethics committee of the House of Representatives has done just that. It has recommended stringent new rules in the areas of honorariums and unsecured loans from banks for House members.

Honorariums for speaking engagements and other outside activities exceeding $300 would have to be publicly reported, as would unsecured loans in excess of $10,000. The proposed rules, which must yet be passed by the House as a whole, would not prohibit fees nor indebtedness, merely require them to be reported.

The House has suffered embarrassment recently from several of its members. One involved a member of the Banking Committee who at one time had $75,000 in unsecured Bank loans. Another case involves the suspended aide of Speaker McCormack. The aide has been indicted on charges involving conspiracy to arrange special favors.

Requiring the reporting of honorariums and loans will not stop congressmen from receiving them, but spreading such financial dealings on the public record will help impress the recipients with the sensitivity of their positions.

Panthers Make Trouble

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Some of our liberals are worried that we are being mean to the Black Panthers. At the annual meeting of the American Historical Association in Washington, Professor Staughton Lynd, as part of his unsuccessful campaign for the presidency of his professional organization, tried to persuade his fellow historians to picket the Department of Justice in protest against "the harassment of the Black Panther Party." And the American Civil Liberties Union, after a survey of police raids on Black Panther groups in nine metropolitan areas, has protested that the Panthers were subjected to "provocative and even punitive harassment, defying the constitutional rights of Panthers to make political speeches or distribute political literature."

Maybe some Panthers are innocent of the things being charged against the organization by FBI director J. Edgar Hoover, whose files list a hundred or more attacks on the police by extremists who have presumably been moved to action by the Panther "Kill the Pigs" propaganda. According to the FBI, seven policemen have died and many more have been injured in battles between "extremist hate-type organizations such as the Black Panther Party" and the police. With claims and counter-claims being tossed about, it is easy to see why both the Panthers and the police are jittery. But where should the primary blame for the Panther — "pig" confrontation be placed?

The Panthers certainly don't make things easy for themselves. David Hilliard, who calls himself the chief of staff of the Black Panther Party, protests that the statement attributed to him, "We will kill Richard Nixon," was merely a bit of "political rhetoric." But when Panthers boast that they are Marxist and Leninist, meaning that they are for violent revolution, any incendiary announcement by their "chief of staff" must take on more than "rhetorical" significance. At the very least the police are justified in being on their guard.

From his refuge in Algeria Eldridge Cleaver, the fugitive Black Panther leader who left America rather than serve a long prison sentence in California on a charge of assault with intent to kill, keeps saying things to provoke J. Edgar Hoover's concern. Cleaver promises the destruction of capitalism in America through revolutionary activity, and says "the war is going to become more and more public and more openly violent." Cleaver cannot, of course, exercise real leadership from a foreign hideout. But the Panthers at home do nothing to reassure the American people that they are exponents of peaceful change. Last summer, in Oakland, California, they staged a Conference for a United Front Against Fascism and invited a spokesman for something called the "American Servicemen's Union" to tell about Communist infiltration of the U.S. Army. The Panthers were regaled with boastful accounts of mutinous activities staged at military bases both in Vietnam and in the U.S. And they cheered a promise that rebellious U.S. soldiers would unite with the Black Panthers to create a violent revolution against the "Fascist" American government.

So is it mere "harassment" when the police and the FBI react to the Hilliard and Cleaver pronouncements by taking them seriously? Maybe the police are overdoing it when they arrest Panthers for "distributing papers without a permit," to quote the Civil Liberties Union. But the Panthers have built themselves up as a menace, and liberals who are spotted here and there throughout the American communications media persist in giving a platform to anyone who promises "revolution" and more "pig killing." The whole thing snowballs when the Federal government and local police departments ask for the notes of newspapermen involving cooperation between the Panthers and the violent Weathermen faction of Students for a Democratic Society. If I were one of the newspapermen whose sources might be compromised by such a demand, I would most likely resent it. But the Attorney General of the U.S. and the head of the FBI have a duty to protect the country and when the Panthers and the Weathermen begin to cooperate the FBI has cause for worry. After all, the Weathermen's chief, Mark Rudd, speaking of the coming decade, has said "you can look for pitched battles between the militant groups and the pigs on a scale that will make anything in the Sixties look like a Sunday School picnic."

It could be that the Panthers and the Weathermen are destined to die as organizations because of their incurable factionalism. Until they do, however, they have nobody to blame but themselves for their "harassment."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE PARSON of a tiny congregation in the Blue Hill Mountains of Virginia rashly lit out one night with the entire church treasury, and the local constable set out to capture him. This he did, dragging the culprit back by the collar a week later. "Here's the varmint, folks," announced the constable grimly. "I'm sorry to say he's already squandered our money, but I drug him back so we can make him preach it out."

A little seven-year-old girl, who had coaxed her daddy into letting her go fishing with him, grew understandably impatient when she failed to get as much as a nibble after more than an hour of bobbing her line up and down in the placid waters of a nearby lake. She suddenly threw her rod into the bottom of the boat and announced, "I don't want to fish any more today, Daddy. I've got a worm that isn't even trying!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our friends, and even we, have noticed a distinctly unpleasant body odor in our 15-year-old daughter. No one else in the family has it. She uses underarm creams and sprays but these do not seem to be effective. Can a physical condition cause this? How can we help her?

Mrs. B.E., Kansas
Dear Mrs. E.: There truly are very few physical disorders responsible for unpleasant body odors. A general physical examination will rule out such a possibility.

We must come face to face with the reality that cleanliness and rigid hygiene are far more important in the control of bad body odor than underarm medications alone.

A group of apocrine glands are responsible for normal, healthy perspiration. Some bacteria seem to flourish on the secretion of these glands and produce bad body odor. There seems to be some advantage in controlling this by shaving underarm hair. Men, to be benefited by cutting their hair shorter.

The most commonly overlooked reason for sustained body odor, even if cleanliness is observed, is the fact that clothes may be saturated with the odor. These should be thoroughly cleaned or even discarded to stop this embarrassing and sometimes socially destructive condition.

On rare occasions, some drugs and foods may be responsible for an odor, but this is usually distinctive from the foul characteristic smell which can pervade a room. A program of supervised cleanliness will undoubtedly help your daughter and avoid the social handicap that accompanies this condition.

Before my wife makes any family decision, even ones of minor importance, she consults an astrologist and then a palm reader. She even does this for medical problems. I don't believe in them and because of this, we pass from crisis to crisis. How do you feel about this nonsense?

Mr. H.B., Massachusetts
Dear Mr. B.: It is an accepted fact that it is impossible to win an argument that involves politics and religion. My advice is that we add palm reading and astrology to these "lost causes." I have tried to dissuade patients from both, only to find that a valuable relationship between us can be disturbed. So, in a mature way, I gave up and just let the enthusiasts for palm reading and astrology fulfill whatever their needs are in these vague and questionable "sciences." My only plea to them and also to your wife, is that medical decisions remain in the province of the well trained physician rather than in the star-gazers.

It is surprising how much inner strength many of us possess. It is self-replenishing if we use it.

Some other shrubs that can be forced into bloom are azalea mucronulatum, flowering quince and fragrant honeysuckle. Twigs of horsechestnut, buckeye and hickory may also be forced. A fresh supply should be brought in every week or 10 days for a succession of bloom.

At the conclusion of the program a dessert course was served to 16 members by the hostess. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Rinehart and Miss Vause.

Miss Julie Williams, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Readers Answer 'Perfect' Wife

DEAR ABBY: I notice that you did not comment on that letter from "YOUNG at 37." You were smart.

She seemed so pleased with herself because she did all her laundry, raised four children and even laid tile and painted her house. I wonder when she found time to write that letter.

She bragged that after 20 years of marriage, she still weighed the same—102 pounds—and she stood 4 feet 11 inches. Then she had the gall to suggest that other women would be "slim," too — if they would get off their fat fannies.

Well, I have news for her. She is from 12 to 17 pounds OVERWEIGHT for her height.

Maybe she should get a good look at herself in a rear view mirror.

Me? I am her age, also stand 4 feet 11 inches, and I weigh 35 pounds.

SIGN ME "PERFECT" IN SIOUX CITY

DEAR ABBY: This is for that cute little 102 pound, 37-year-old lady:

At 8 a.m. I have already fed a family of six. Three of my children are in school and my "baby" (age 4) is on the way back home with me because I have driven a 55 capacity bus 6 miles and picked up the children for school.

When I get home I must take care of my home and meals and laundry because at 2:30 p.m. I am on my way back to school to take the children home.

I also sew, garden and even repair my upholstered furniture when necessary. I am president of the PTA for the second consecutive year. I also teach the primary class in my church school and take an active part in church activities.

Yes, you guessed it. My fanny is fat, but I don't get to sit on it much.

MILDRED LOCKHART, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Rock Musical Set To Open In Columbus

"Your Own Thing," a rock musical loosely adapted from Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," will be presented Wednesday and Thursday at Veterans Memorial, Columbus.

Performances begin at 8:30 each evening with a Thursday matinee at 2:30 p.m. The musical comedy is one of Theater Guild - American Theater Society plays to be presented in the 1970 season.

Shakespeare and rock may seem an unusual combination for any show. Following the plot of "Twelfth Night," the play is based on the separation of identical twins, a boy and girl, who are washed ashore after a shipwreck.

Confusion and romance are as complicated as the Englishman invented them, with a "mod" tone.

The two seek employment with a rock quartet as a replacement for a singer who has been drafted. Count Orsino becomes Orson, manager of the group, who hires both twins, thinking he has hired only one of them. Countess Olivia becomes the owner of the discotheque where the quartet is engaged.

The title of the show has become a common cry of our modern world today. It is the plea for people to follow their own inclination, disregarding the standards of society if necessary.

In "Your Own Thing," it refers to Orson's decision to succumb to his feelings of love for the youthful singer he has hired. He is greatly relieved to learn the singer is a girl masquerading as a boy for protection.

Cincy Workers Return As Settlement Challenged

CINCINNATI (AP) — Striking city employees returned to work today after 34 days while their negotiated raises were challenged in Hamilton County Common Pleas court.

The settlement was reached Thursday but the 1,500 member local of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees voted not to return to work until today, the date the new contract takes effect.

Two Cincinnati attorneys Friday filed a court action to intervene in the city's agreement to drop prosecution of three union officials on contempt of court charges.

Attorney Jerome Goldman filed the motion on behalf of an associate, Mitchell Goldberg, a taxpayer.

Judge William Morrissey set a hearing for this morning.

Goldman said the motion was filed because the city had agreed in negotiations to drop charges against Al Van Hagen, district director of Local 51 AFSCME and two others.

The trio served nine days of jail terms imposed by Judge Morrissey for picketing city hall in violation of an injunction. Two were sentenced to 20 days in jail, the other man to 10.

Goldman said, that under Ohio law, city workers cannot receive any raise in pay for a year after returning to work from an illegal strike.

He said the law forbids public employees to strike. He sent a letter to City Solicitor William McClain asking the city to apply for a court order prohibiting payment of wage increases to strikers.

Cincinnati GE Talks Resumed

CINCINNATI (AP) — Union officials representing 6,500 workers here in the 107-day strike at two General Electric plants resumed negotiations on a local level today as company officials protested the unions' decision to delay a vote on a wage agreement made nationally in New York.

Charles H. Turner, GE union relations manager said: "We are not being given an opportunity to vote on secret ballots to accept local contract offers."

Turner complained that neither the machinists considered a vote Sunday nor did the United Auto Workers at their meeting Wednesday.

About 1400 machinists cheered at a mass meeting in a downtown theater Sunday when an unidentified speaker charged that the national contract agreement "was made for light bulb makers, not for the best engine makers in the world."

I worked every bit as hard as she did, and maybe harder, but let's not go into that. At 19 my hair started graying and at 20 I had developed a nice size ulcer from worrying about cobwebs I couldn't reach.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Readers Answer 'Perfect' Wife

DEAR ABBY: I notice that you did not comment on that letter from "YOUNG at 37." You were smart.

She seemed so pleased with herself because she did all her laundry, raised four children and even laid tile and painted her house. I wonder when she found time to write that letter.

She bragged that after 20 years of marriage, she still weighed the same—102 pounds—and she stood 4 feet 11 inches. Then she had the gall to suggest that other women would be "slim," too — if they would get off their fat fannies.

Well, I have news for her. She is from 12 to 17 pounds OVERWEIGHT for her height.

Rock Musical Set To Open In Columbus

"Your Own Thing," a rock musical loosely adapted from Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," will be presented Wednesday and Thursday at Veterans Memorial, Columbus.

Performances begin at 8:30 each evening with a Thursday matinee at 2:30 p.m. The musical comedy is one of Theater Guild—American Theater Society plays to be presented in the 1970 season.

Shakespeare and rock may seem an unusual combination for any show. Following the plot of "Twelfth Night," the play is based on the separation of identical twins, a boy and girl, who are washed ashore after a shipwreck.

Confusion and romance are as complicated as the Englishman invented them, with a "mod" tone.

The two seek employment with a rock quartet as a replacement for a singer who has been drafted. Count Orsino becomes Orson, manager of the group, who hires both twins, thinking he has hired only one of them. Countess Olivia becomes the owner of the discotheque where the quartet is engaged.

The title of the show has become a common cry of our modern world today. It is the plea for people to follow their own inclination, disregarding the standards of society if necessary.

In "Your Own Thing," it refers to Orson's decision to succumb to his feelings of love for the youthful singer he has hired. He is greatly relieved to learn the singer is a girl masquerading as a boy for protection.

Maybe she should get a good look at herself in a rear view mirror.

Me? I am her age, also stand 4 feet 11 inches, and I weigh 35 pounds.

SIGN ME "PERFECT" IN SIOUX CITY

DEAR ABBY: This is for that cute little 102 pound, 37-year-old lady:

At 8 a.m. I have already fed a family of six. Three of my children are in school and my "baby" (age 4) is on the way back home with me because I have driven a 55 capacity bus 6 miles and picked up the children for school.

When I get home I must take care of my home and meals and laundry because at 2:30 p.m. I am on my way back to school to take the children home.

I also sew, garden and even repair my upholstered furniture when necessary. I am president of the PTA for the second consecutive year. I also teach the primary class in my church school and take an active part in church activities.

Yes, you guessed it. My fanny is fat, but I don't get to sit on it much.

MILDRED LOCKHART, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

DEAR ABBY: How come with all her talent, "YOUNG at 37" didn't enter the MRS. AMERICA contest?

I have been married for 28 years and have been on the heavy side all my life, and it is not from sitting on my fat fanny either. I have always done all my own cooking and baking, housework and floor scrubbing. I shampoo my rugs regularly, too. I just finished painting the interior of my house and put in carpet tiles in all the bedrooms and baths. I also made draperies for the house and slip covers for all the furniture, plus I have arthritis in my neck and spine.

When my husband comes home, he gets a hot full-course dinner with no waiting. I also have two friends who have no cars, and I take them grocery shopping once a week. I do lots more, but why brag?

HEAVY AND HAPPY IN CAMDEN, N.J.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "YOUNG at 37": My mother, age 64 is 4 feet 11 inches and she weighs 170 pounds. She does all her own work, picks apples with the experts, goes hunting with dad, helps haul wood, and she can food enough in the summer to see her own family and plenty of neighbors through the winter. When sitting on her "fat fanny," she makes quilts and layettes for the Salvation Army. I believe "Young at 37" would have a hard time keeping up with my mother.

45 AND CARRYING MY OWN WEIGHT IN SALEM, ORE.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell that busy 37-year-old woman with the overactive thyroid that if she tries hard enough she may be able to overcome her compulsion to keep busy every second. I thank God for my 160 pounds and my even disposition which allows me to put quiet and peacefulness ahead of efficiency and orderliness. And my children are growing up in a home with a mother who has time to listen, and share, and to help others. That's what it's all about, Abby. Sign me...

SERENE IN THE SOUTHWEST

DEAR ABBY: I just had my 21st birthday and I have 2 children ages 4 and 3. I've been married 5½ years. I would like for "YOUNG at 37" to know that I started out at 102 pounds just like she did, but now I weigh 150, and it's not because I sat around on my fat fanny. Cincy Workers Return As Settlement Challenged

CINCINNATI (AP) — Striking city employees returned to work today after 34 days while their negotiated raises were challenged in Hamilton County Common Pleas court.

The settlement was reached Thursday but the 1,500 member local of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees voted not to return to work until today, the date the new contract takes effect.

Two Cincinnati attorneys Friday filed a court action to intervene in the city's agreement to drop prosecution of three union officials on contempt of court charges.

Attorney Jerome Goldman filed the motion on behalf of an associate, Mitchell Goldberg, a taxpayer.

Judge William Morrissey set a hearing for this morning.

Goldman said the motion was filed because the city had agreed in negotiations to drop charges against Al Van Hagen, district director of Local 51 AFSCME and two others.

The trio served nine days of jail terms imposed by Judge Morrissey for picketing city hall in violation of an injunction. Two were sentenced to 20 days in jail, the other man to 10.

Goldman said, that under Ohio law, city workers cannot receive any raise in pay for a year after returning to work from an illegal strike.

He said the law forbids public employees to strike. He sent a letter to City Solicitor William McClain asking the city to apply for a court order prohibiting payment of wage increases to strikers.

McClain took the letter under study. Goldman indicated he would file a suit if the city did not take action.

The first contingent of city workers came back to work Sunday night. The highway maintenance workers reported back at 10 p.m. to begin preparing garbage trucks for the monumental trash collection set to begin at 6:30 a.m.

Claim Viet Cong Killed Civilians

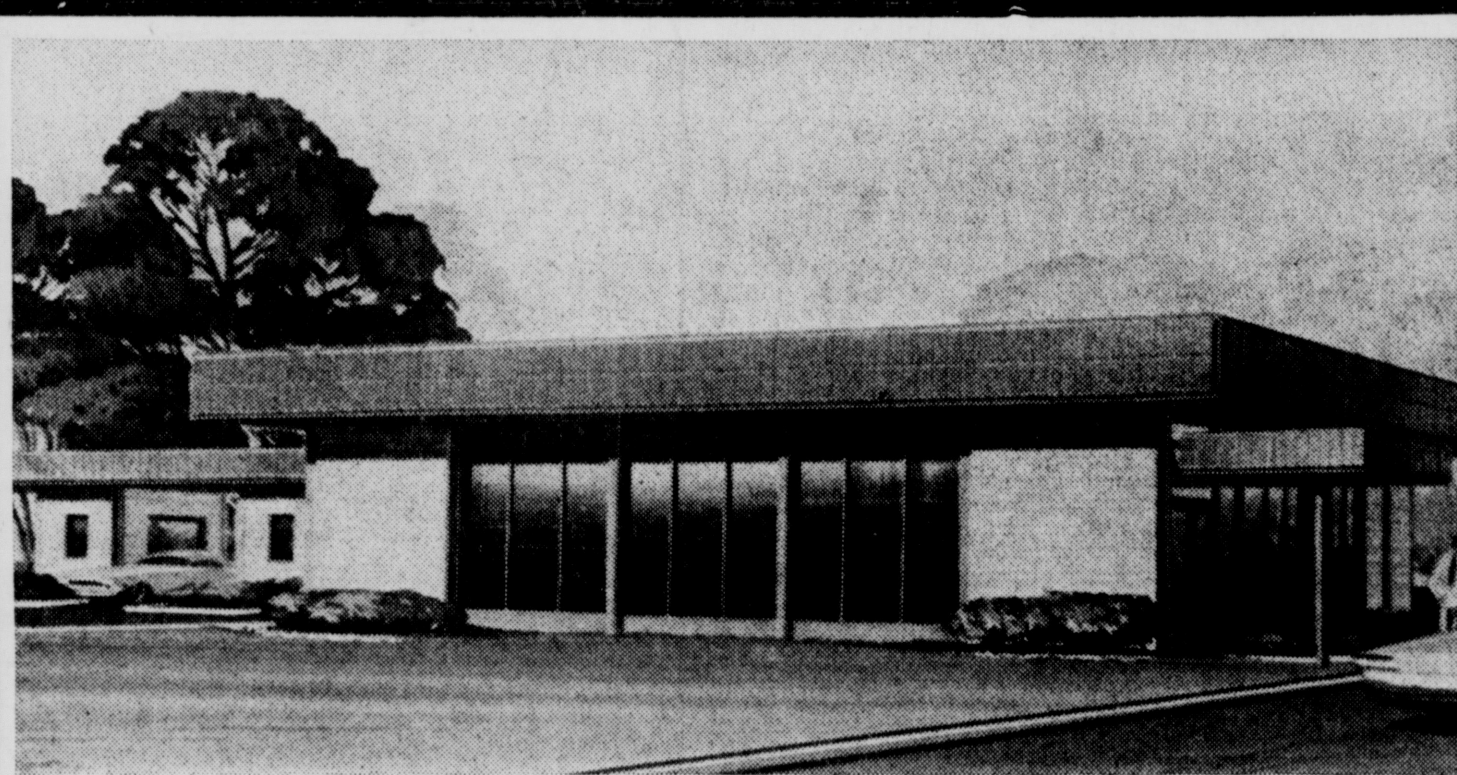

NEW YORK (AP) — A captured Communist document says local Red leaders executed entire families in the same province in which U.S. troops allegedly massacred civilians at My Lai, the New York Daily News said in its Monday editions.

The News said in a Saigon dispatch by correspondent Joseph Fried that the Communist command's secret directive ordered a halt to a reign of terror by the local leaders in Quang Ngai Province because it was costing popular support.

The News quoted the document as saying the leaders had falsely accused some of their opponents of subversive activities. "Then the hamlet unit secretly arrested and executed those people without trial or requesting authority from higher headquarters. The killing of 12-year-old children, their parents and relatives, occurred in some areas."

IN AS FEW AS 10 DAYS ON GRAPEFRUIT DIET

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. (Special) — This is the revolutionary grapefruit diet that everyone is suddenly talking about. Thousands of copies have been passed from hand to hand in factories, plants and offices throughout the U.S. Because this diet really works. We have testimonials reporting on its success. If you follow it exactly, you could lose up to 10 lbs. in as few as 10 days. Then you will start dropping weight on approximately the 5th day and thereafter until the 10th day. Then you will lose every few days until you get down to your proper weight.

Best of ALL there will be no hunger pangs. Revised and enlarged, this diet lets you eat your fill with formerly forbidden foods, such as high-protein foods — steak, roasts, chicken, sea foods, bacon, sausages, eggs and still lose weight. This is the same diet used by famous T.V. and movie stars with much success. The secret behind this "quick weight loss" diet is simple. Fat does not form fat. And the grapefruit juice in this diet acts as a catalyst (the "trigger"), to start the fat burning process. You fill yourself on the permitted food listed in the diet plan, and still lose unsightly fat and excess body fluids. A copy of this startling successful diet can be obtained by sending $2 to

Citrus Diet Plan

Money - back guarantee if after trying the diet you have not lost weight to your satisfaction, simply return the diet plan and your $2 will be refunded promptly and without argument. Tear out this message as a reminder. Decide now to regain the trim attractive figure of your youth.

Claim Viet Cong Killed Civilians

NEW YORK (AP) — A captured Communist document

says local Red leaders executed entire families in the same province in which U.S. troops allegedly massacred civilians at My Lai, the New York Daily News said in its Monday editions.

The News said in a Saigon dispatch by correspondent Joseph Fried that the Communist command's secret directive ordered a halt to a reign of terror by the local leaders in Quang Ngai Province because it was costing popular support.

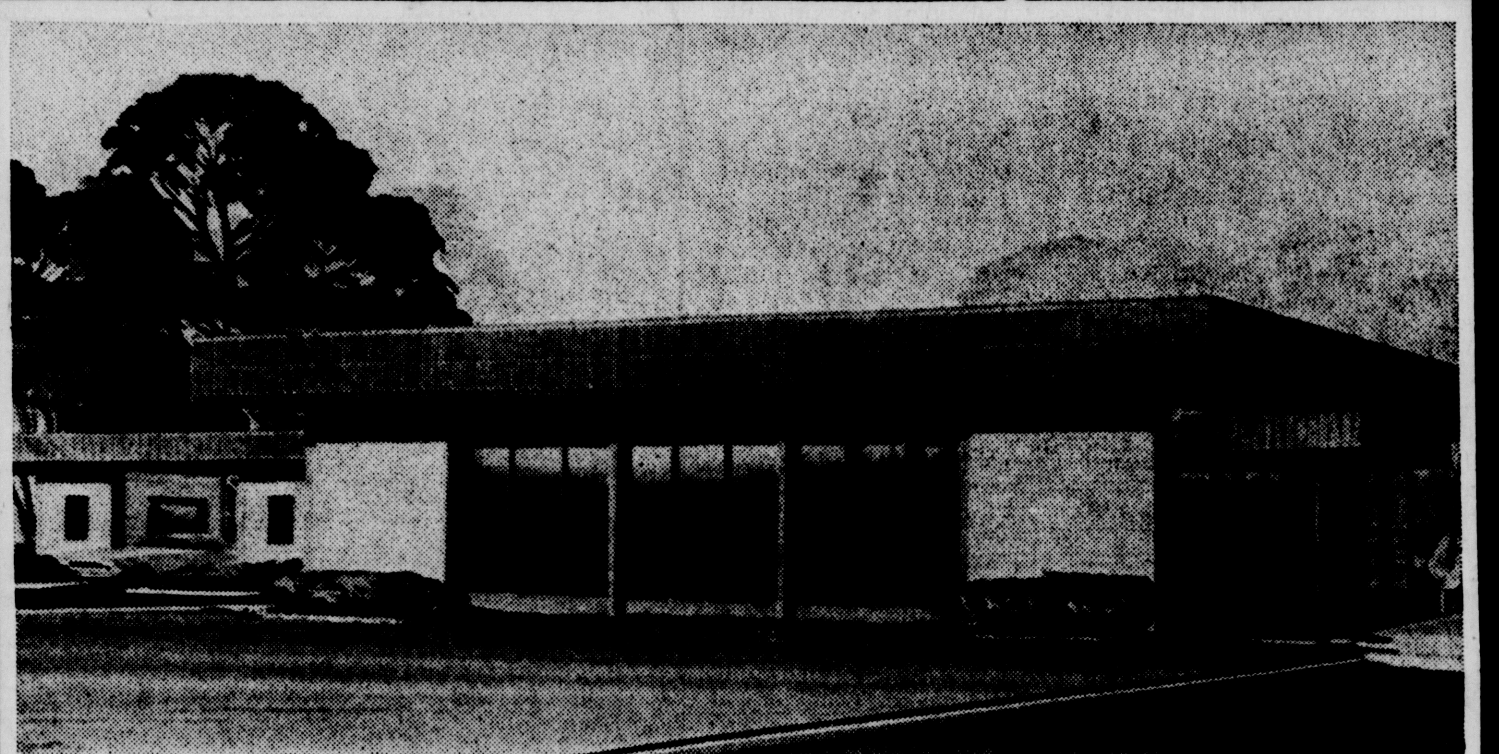

The News quoted the document as saying the leaders had falsely accused some of their opponents of subversive activities. "Then the hamlet unit secretly arrested and executed those people without trial or requesting authority from higher headquarters. The killing of 12-year-old children, their parents and relatives, occurred in some areas."

Westfall Edges Tigers

By MIKE VAUGHAN
Herald Sports Writer

Westfall edged the Circleville Tigers in a close fray Saturday night, 66-60, on the Mustang cage court.

Circleville, after trailing by six at halftime, pulled within one marker by the end of the third canto and led by seven with 6:29 left in the game. With less than five minutes to play, the Mustang machine went into action and the hosts controlled the rest of the battle allowing CHS only three points while scoring eight to win.

Before the start of the contest Westfall honored their six seniors on the varsity squad who were playing their last game for the Mustangs. The six included Keith Eitel, Greg Bigam, Bill Blair, Steve Sines, Tom Hawker and Rick Beatty.

Westfall got the tip but failed to score as the annual grudge game slowly got underway. The first tally belonged to Circleville as Charlie Jackson hit a jumper for two with 5:30 showing on the clock. Both squads matched buckets for the rest of the canto but Circleville, unable to score in the last 1:29 of the quarter, trailed by two at the buzzer, 11-9.

SECOND stanza action saw both teams fighting for a clear cut lead. With three minutes left in the half, the hosts had mounted an eight point lead. Circleville, a never-say-die squad, kept the horses from running away with the tilt but trailed at halftime, 33-27.

Westfall's halftime show featured the WHS pep band and the 1970-71 Mustang majorettes. The senior members of the Westfall cheerleading squad was also recognized.

In the third canto, Circleville got hot on the shooting accuracy of Randy Halley and Charlie Jackson and the rebounding abilities of Ty Ankrum and Bryce Brown. Brown, seeing his first action since recovering from a knee injury, grabbed four rebounds in the period.

Lawhorn's Legion tied the tally at 46-46 with 2:12 left in the third stanza but trailed at the buzzer by one, 48-47.

Circleville immediately tied the game for the fourth time on a free throw by Randy Halley as the last canto started.

CHS Reserves Win, 48-32

Circleville's reserve squad evened up their season with eight wins against eight losses Saturday night, dumping the Westfall junior varsity, 48-32, in the preliminary tilt.

Don Valentine again led the Circleville team with 24 points on nine field goals and six charity shots. Mike Hamrick took second honors with six. Joe McGowan, Kent Wolfe and John Hunt added four, while Rich Speakman netted three. Bob Downey had two and Terry Morrison connected for one.

Boyer's Boys led the fray by five after the initial period, nine at halftime and 13 by the end of three cantos.

Larry Harris led the host Mustangs with 11 points while John Valone took second place with eight. Mark Schein netted three and Tim Neff, Doug McKay, Joe Clem and Carl Boen hit for two and Mike Puckett added one.

Circleville hit 19 buckets from afield and ten shots from the charity stripe as compared to Westfall's 12 field goals and eight free points.

Circleville takes on Greenfield Friday in the prelim.

In Memoriam

In memory of my husband Oliver
"Ollie" Lemon, February 10, 1961.
Gone but not forgotten, by wife,
Martha Lemon.

In memory of our mother Mintie
J. (Rugsby) Kneese on this her birthday.
In a graveside softly sleeping
Where the flowers gently wave
Lies the mother we loved so dearly
But whom we could not save.
God knows how much we miss her
And whispers that she only sleeps
Our loved one is not dead.
If all the world was ours to give,
We'd give it, yes and more
To see the face of our dear mother.
The one we loved so dear.
Happy Birthday Mom.

In Memoriam

In memory of my husband Oliver
"Ollie" Lemon, February 10, 1961.
Gone but not forgotten, by wife,
Martha Lemon.
In memory of our mother, Minnie
J. (Biggs) Kneese on this her birthday.
In a graveside softly sleeping
Where the flowers gently wave
Lies the mother we loved so dearly
But whom we could not save.
God knows how much we miss her
And whispers that she only sleeps
Our loved one is not dead.
If all the world was ours to give,
We'd give it, yes and more
To see the face of our dear mother.
The one we loved so dear.
Happy Birthday Mom
Daughters and Sons

FTC Studies Gasoline Octane Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The machine-gun clattering and popping of an automobile engine during heavy acceleration is more than a nuisance. It's likely to be expensive.

The noises, called "knock" or "ping," mean the car is burning the wrong gasoline. The result can be a battered piston. Signs that a car owner has been using the wrong gasoline can void his warranty.

Even if the engine noises don't tip off a driver, he can still be using the wrong gasoline. There'll be no damage to the engine, but he'd be spending more money on gasoline than necessary.

The key to a happy marriage of engine and fuel is octane rating—the ability of a gasoline to resist knocking.

How easily a driver can find out the octane rating of a specific gasoline is a point of contention.

Oil companies say the information is furnished to all their dealers. The Federal Trade Commission has a bundle of complaints from drivers who say getting the information from a service station operator is next to impossible.

As a result, the commission has proposed—in the face of industry opposition—that a gasoline's octane rating be clearly displayed on filling station pumps.

When a gasoline's octane is too low, the fuel in the combustion chamber explodes prematurely, catching the piston in mid-stroke and sending a severe jolt into the car's power system.

When the octane is too high, there is no damage, but a driver can be wasting from $30 to $50 in a year of normal driving.

Gasolines bear a vast array of octane-related labels like "regular," "standard," "super," "premium," "hi-test" or simply brand names with no generic designation.

Besides being imprecise, says the FTC, the labels cause confusion for another reason. "In certain instances gasolines are being marketed by the descriptive grade name of 'regular' which are in fact of a lower octane rating than the average active grade name of 'regular' brands normally marketed, with resulting damage to the engines," the commission says.

Car manufacturers consider octane rating important enough to specify in owners' manuals the octane to be used in the engine.

Generally, regular gasolines have an octane rating of 94 or 95. Premium gasolines, which cost about 5 cents more a gallon, are rated at 99. Laminated around the two major classifications are sub-regular gasolines with a 91 octane rating, middle-octane gasolines rate at 97 and super octanes rated at 100.

The oil industry has complained octane measurement is an inexact technique and drivers would only be confused by a posting of the ratings. Furthermore, the posting would be expensive to initiate and enforce, the industry has complained.

The proposal has the support of consumer groups: Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.; Reps. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., and Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., and a major manufacturer of outboard motors.

Auto makers haven't taken a stand on the FTC proposal.

Commission staffers are drafting a recommendation for the full commission. A final ruling isn't expected before May.

Saltcreek Grange Wins District Event

Seventeen grangers from Pickaway County were present at the district lecturer's contest held at Bremen Saturday when the program from Saltcreek Valley Grange was named the winning presentation.

The winning program will next be presented at the Ohio State Deputy Conference or the Lecturers' Conference to be held in the fall.

The winning score was 97 points, with Dublin Grange, Franklin County, receiving second place with a score of 93, Fairfield County's entry from Pickerington, with a score of 92, received third place.

Demo Policy Group Eyes Vietnam

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic Policy Council was summoned into session today to act on a series of broad domestic and foreign policy statements including a call for total U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam within 18 months.

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., saying he did not want to undermine President Nixon's efforts to settle the war, suggested in advance of the meeting the 66-member council delete any specific time limit from the proposal drafted by a subcommittee headed by Averell Harriman.

Meanwhile, antiwar factions on the council were considering a bid to strengthen the Harriman statement.

The all-day council meeting came a day after congressional Democrats presented a nationally televised view of the state of the nation, an equal-time reply to Nixon's State of the Union message.

The Democratic version focused on a troubled citizenry and the issues of this congressional election year. It consisted of interviews and discussions between congressional Democrats and citizens in Washington, Los Angeles, Houston and Detroit.

The airing of the Democratic show prompted T. Coleman Andrews Jr. of Richmond, Va., national chairman of the American

Calley Lawyers To Seek Dismissal Of Charges

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Attorneys for Lt. William L. Calley Jr. go before a military judge today in another attempt to get charges that he murdered 102 Vietnamese civilians either dismissed or taken before a civilian court.

Calley faces court-martial in the alleged killings at My Lai on March 16, 1968.

His chief defense attorney, George Latimer of Salt Lake City, Utah, contends that the Army has no jurisdiction over the Miami, Fla., native because he is being held on active duty past his release date.

Calley was charged the day before his scheduled release Sept. 5.

The hearing today revolves around pretrial defense motions that command influence from President Nixon on down was brought to bear in the decision to try Calley and that Calley cannot get a fair trial because of pretrial news coverage.

The hearing is a continuation of one held Jan. 29 when the prosecution was ordered to be more specific in the charges against Calley. The charges do not identify any of the alleged victims and only a few of the specifications identify the victims by sex or age.

The prosecution has sought further hearings on the wording of the charges, but the request has been denied by Judge Lt. Col. Reid W. Kennedy.

On Friday, the Army announced it was dropping a charge against Calley that he murdered a Vietnamese male approximately six weeks before the My Lai incident.

The post commander, Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, made the decision after receiving a recommendation from an investigation officer. The nature of the recommendation was not announced.

Secretary Of State Opens Policy Talks With Morocco

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers and his Moroccan hosts scheduled talks today after a Sunday of sightseeing for the American visitor. He indicated that the Arab-Israeli conflict was taboo as a topic of discussion.

Rogers was to meet first today with Prime Minister Ahmed Laraki and then lunch with King Hassan II. Saturday night, after his arrival in Africa, he talked for an hour with Foreign Minister Abdel Hafid Boutaleb.

Moroccan commitment to the Arab cause and U.S. support for Israel was considered the reason that the Moroccans gave the first American secretary of state to Africa something less than an all-out welcome.

Rogers and his wife were treated to a colorful welcome Sunday in Fez, Morocco's ancient religious capital 120 miles north of Rabat. Escorted through the 1,000-year-old city by eight Moslem priests in flowing robes, the visitors walked for an hour around the cobbled streets.

Boutaleb met Rogers and his wife at the airport Saturday night but made no welcoming speech. A state banquet by the king was canceled, and instead

Russell Family Joins In Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., and about 50 members of the Russell family attended religious services Sunday at the White House as invited guests of President Nixon.

The President called the group "one of America's most distinguished families."

Present were seven of Russell's nine brothers and sisters along with their spouses and children.

The service was conducted by a younger brother, Dr. Henry Edward Russell, minister of the Second Presbyterian Church in Memphis, Tenn. He built a sermon around the theme that "holiness is an indispensable ingredient for successful living."

Ross Chapel Lost In Friday Blaze

Asbury Chapel at Egypt Pike and Asbury Road in Ross County was destroyed by flames late Friday night.

The chapel, built in 1892, was last used as a church in 1930. At the time of the fire, it was used as a farm building for grain and farm implement storage. Clarksburg firemen removed a truck from the burning building but were unable to save a self-propelled combine or 1,000 bales of straw and hay. Loss to the structure and contents were estimated at $13,000.

The old chapel and farm are owned by Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Coffman, who reside in Washington C. H.

Ross Chapel Lost In Friday Blaze

Asbury Chapel at Egypt Pike and Asbury Road in Ross County was destroyed by flames late Friday night.

The chapel, built in 1892, was last used as a church in 1930. At the time of the fire, it was used as a farm building for grain and farm implement storage. Clarksburg firemen removed a truck from the burning building but were unable to save a self-propelled combine or 1,000 bales of straw and hay. Loss to the structure and contents were estimated at $13,000.

The old chapel and farm are owned by Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Coffman, who reside in Washington C. H.
